

Understanding the Influence of Social Experiences and Individual Differences on College Students' Health

IRB #12-18

Earn 1 research credit for PY151

Purpose: To examine the relationships between social experiences, dimensions of personality and individual differences, and health among college students. Students who participate in this study may also be invited to take part in additional follow-up studies.

Length: approximately 45 – 50 minutes

Research Credits: earn 1 credit toward PY151's research requirement

What to Expect: you will complete a series of questionnaires online that assess different aspects of your social experiences, personality, and health. Some of the questions deal with personal experiences including experiencing violence, anxiety, aggression, and intimidation.

For more information about this study or to sign up to participate, please email the Social Development and Health Lab at developmentlab@clarkson.edu